

JAMES WILKINSON

James Wilkinson is a visionary music entrepreneur with both producer and artist manager credits. He started his adventures in the creative industries in the early nineties as a musician performing at the highest level in the classical and pop world including Glastonbury Festival with The Beta Band, producing orchestral recordings with international soprano Susan Bullock at Boosey & Hawkes and working at BMG, V2 and Universal.

James now works as an independent creative music consultant, music supervisor, project manager, synchronisation specialist and artist manager helping new businesses and artists define a new era of the music industry.
